ROUTING OUTFITS

FOR GENTLEMEN!

Everything in Wearing Apparel conducive to the comfort of the

Masculine Gender

During the hot summer months, can always be found at Bicknell Bros. The secret to a

JOLLY GOOD TIME

While on your vacation lies in the fact of purchasing your outfit at Bicknell Bros.

Our Umbrellas and Travelling Bags are made of such adhesive material as to stay by their owner; they are so charged with adhesiveness as to "never get left," providing their owner is not absent-minded, keeps sober, and don't beat his railroad fare or board bill.

If you buy Pantaloon at BICKNELL BROS., of their own manufacture, they will make you happy while your wife is at the beach. Because, why? They will not be eternally ripping and buttons falling off.

Our French Flannel Vacation Shirts are the best on earth. We don't mean to say that they are the highest in price, but they have honest value in them.

Silk and satin stripes, so much admired by young men, will be found in our large assortment, and our salesmen are instructed to tell their customers what to expect of them. The fact is, their youthful beauty is gone after the first washing, unless it is done very carefully. If you want a shirt to wear a few days, just for its beauty, buy a silk stripe, otherwise let some other fellow buy it, and you take one made of cotton, wool, and common sense.

If you would wear a Straw Hat, under which no man will perspire, unless by heat and exercise, and beautiful Summer Neckwear, with a look so frigid as to match the North Pole, and so artistically beautiful as to almost draw the eye of your best girl from its natural socket, buy the same at BICKNELL BROS.

If you want Boys' Vacation Outfits that will make your darlings look sweeter than ever, as cool as a cucumber, serviceable and strong enough to hang a boy up high and dry on a wire fence, or an apple tree limb, get the same at BICKNELL BROS.

If you want a hammock for a little money with pillow and spreader combined, that is strong enough to carry a load of hay, and will tell no courtship tales, we shall recommend BICKNELL BROS. as the place to get them.

In a word: If you want the best assortment of everything to be found in any one clothing house in Massachusetts, for a Vacation Outfit, and at such prices as will enable you to pay travelling and board bills, let the street clock direct you to the right place.—BICKNELL BROS.

BEAUTIFUL
LAKE
COCHICHEWICK

Historic Red Men.

There are few regions in New England which the wild legends and traditions of the fast-vanishing race of red men have not invested with a peculiar charm. The poetic legends of Whittier have made famous the White Hills of New Hampshire, and the lake region of that state as well, but there are many other localities, equally worthy, which are still unsung, and the legends which remain to remind us of aboriginal days are fast vanishing into forgetfulness.

Such a region is that in the immediate neighborhood of Lake Cochichewick, in North Andover, where, hundreds of years ago, the noble race of red men built their graceful wigwams and lighted their council fires. There they watched the golden maize ripen in the fertile meadows under the influence of the September sun, and pursued the bounding deer through the dense forests. Lake Cochichewick was then, as now, one of the most beautiful sheets of water in all this region, and its waters were as clear and cool as a shower of pearls.

The same conditions exist now. No polluted streams flow into it, but it is fed by springs in the bottom of the lake, which make its waters absolutely pure, and always cold and clear. Its shores are covered with small, smooth pebbles, and upon adjacent hillside forests of oak and evergreen still remain.

At the lower end of the lake three large ice houses have been erected and filled with ice from this clear body of water. Six thousand tons have been housed here by EDWARD ADAMS, who is prepared to furnish ice of absolute purity to his customers. It is vastly different from the ordinary ice sold in New England, and it can be obtained by leaving your order at the store of

VALPEY BROTHERS, Andover.

Strictly Pure Ice!

Citizens of Andover desiring a strictly pure article of ice should see that their supply comes from Ponds pond. As pure a sheet of water as there is in Massachusetts, surrounded by hill and wood. Fed entirely by springs, there is no chance for impurities, not even locomotive cinders. It is of as much historic interest as her larger sister in connection with the Red Men or the Black, and is not behind in sentimentality, and it is ahead in purity.

I secured two thousand tons of ice from its surface the past winter, and am prepared to furnish persons with it at reasonable rates in quantities to suit. Orders left with REA & ABBOTT will receive prompt attention.

The A.O.U.W. Picnic at Bellevue Grove, Haggett's Pond on Wednesday, was a very enjoyable affair, participated in by about 150 from Andover, and 50 from each of the lodges in Lowell, Lawrence, Methuen, and Haverhill. The train arrived at the grove at about 9 o'clock, and the morning was spent in boating, bathing, and other kindred pleasures with a base-ball match between two picked nines. In the afternoon came the sports of the day and dancing to the music of the Andover Orchestra. The sports consisted of a ball match, tug of war and 100 yards dash and were all won by Lincoln Lodge of Andover. The ball game was contested by a nine from Haverhill Lodge and the following representing Andover: Harris, c.; Simpson, p.; Leitch, 1 b.; Brown, 2 b.; Trefry, 3 b.; H. P. Chase, s. s.; Rhodes, 1 f.; Richardson, c. f.; O. P. Chase, r. f. The score at the close was 18 to 3 in favor of Andover. Aleck Rogers umpired satisfactorily. In the tug of war the following team representing Andover, defeated Lawrence: Dr. Leitch, Messrs. Harris, Trefry, Barron, and Howarth. The 100 yards dash had eight competitors representing all the lodges. Dr. Leitch won in good time. The Andover people arrived home at about 8 o'clock, finding fault with nothing but the miserable dinner served by proprietor Dixon of the grove.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

Buffalo Bugs.

The less of them the better—therefore the more about them the better! The July Bulletin of the Experimental Station at Amherst Agricultural College (which by the way is doing a good thing in various directions by its "experiments" and its monthly report of them) contains a full account of these insects and their habits, in answer to constant inquiries about them. We make a few extracts for the benefit of those of our lady readers who prefer the undivided use of their carpets:

This insect is exceedingly destructive to all kinds of woolen materials and also to collections of insects and plants. The opinion that it injures cotton or silk goods, lace curtains, etc., must be erroneous, for I have repeatedly put the larvae or young of this beetle into bottles with various substances for them to feed upon, and when furnished with cotton and wool mixed goods, they invariably ate the woolen fibres, leaving the cotton intact; but when I gave them only cotton, silk, or pieces of newspaper, they as invariably died without eating any of these substances. The injuries reported to have been done to silk, lace curtains, etc., must have been done by some other insect.

So far as my observations extend, the Buffalo beetles and their larvae are much more abundant in rooms on the second and third floor than below, and during the month of March, in rooms that have been kept warm, the beetles emerge and fly to the windows where they may be taken and destroyed. It is probable that these early beetles pair and lay eggs, which produce the first generation of larvae, for early in April very small larvae are found, while later in the month larger ones, and early in May full grown larvae occur. About the middle of May, or about two months later than their first appearance, the beetles appear on the windows a second time. This leads me to believe that there is more than one generation in a year, and perhaps a succession of them during the summer. It is certain, however, that they pass the winter in the pupa stage, and that the beetles emerge in March as already stated.

The larvae are very often found feeding upon the woolen lint that has accumulated in the cracks of the floor, and unless this is carefully cleaned out or covered with paper under the carpet, they may come up and eat the carpet along the line of the crack cutting it as completely as could have been done with scissors. It is desirable, therefore, before putting down a carpet in a badly infested room, to saturate the lint in the cracks of the floor with benzine or kerosene, and cover the floor very carefully and fully with carpet paper, or even with newspapers, in such a way that the larvae cannot find access to the carpet from beneath.

The beetles usually lay their eggs, and the larvae attack the carpets under their exposed edges, and these parts may be protected by washing over the edges and a few inches of the under side with a solution of corrosive sublimate in alcohol, in the proportion of sixty grains to one pint. The alcohol quickly evaporates, leaving the corrosive sublimate over all the fibres of the carpet where the application has been made, and when the larvae eat it they are quickly destroyed.

It must be remembered that corrosive sublimate is a rank poison, and cannot be safely used where children play upon the carpet, lest they might get some of the poisoned portions in their mouths and thus be poisoned.

The larvae of the Buffalo beetles appear to be attracted to the bright red figures of a carpet more than to any other color, and some people have found it very useful to spread pieces of carpeting in which red was the prevailing color, on the bare floors of the closets, and then take up and shake these pieces every few days, and kill the larvae found under them. It might be well to wet these pieces of carpet with corrosive sublimate in alcohol, to poison the larvae as soon as they attack it.

It has been recommended to spread wet cloths along the edge of an infested carpet, and to pass a hot flatiron over them. If this be properly and frequently done, the steam will be forced down through the carpet and will kill the larvae. Naphthalene and gasoline have been recommended for the destruction of the carpet beetles, but they are so volatile, and the danger of explosion which might cause fire so great that insurance companies will not give permission to use them.

NOTES.

(1) This date is evidently an error, and should be 1713, as Timothy Perkins married. 2d, Hannah Buxton, Feb. 2, 1714, as above.

A Relic from the North Parish.

We have been much interested in examining a little old account book owned by Mr. T. O. Wardwell, which as well as his name came down to him from his great-grandfather, Capt. Timothy Osgood. It is six inches by four in size, with cover of parchment, and has the marks of a clasp which anciently fastened it. It apparently was kept at the first by Capt. Timothy's great-grandfather, Timothy, who was the son of Capt. John, who was the son of John the emigrant, who was only second to Governor Bradstreet among Andover's first settlers. The first few pages contain the roll of the soldiers of the Andover militia company. A later hand—Capt. Timothy's?—has written: List of Trand Solders Long ago. We judge from the names that this "long ago" was about the beginning of the eighteenth century, and this is confirmed by the minutes of the regular trainings when absentees were fined.

The officers recorded at the head of the roll were: Lef [Lieut.] John Asleh, Ensign Ephraim Steuence, Seri [Sergeant] Samll frie, Seri Samuel Osgood, Seri Samll Ingalls, Seri binjami parker, Corpell John Steuence, Corpll John Ingalls, Corpll Oleuer holt, Corpll John Johnson. The nine pages that follow contain the familiar names which are found in our weekly record of the families of that period—Astin, Bodwell, Abbot, Johnson, Chandler, Carlton, Russell, Hoult, Preston, Nicolls, Gray, Sessions, Loueioy, ffarington, farnem, Marble, Marstone, Hutchinson, ffyre, Wilson, flalkner, Tiler, Barker, Lacy, Robinson, Pourre, Dane, Granger, Wardwell, Parker, Allen, Smith, Martin.

These are samples of the training day entries: "A Traing Day Holden by Cap Barker May 27 1706: The parsones wanting all day: Mathu —, Eldad (?) after none, John nathan tiler, Ebeneazer osgood, John Osgood, Braviter Gray" with fines against each name. "Reckned with Captain Barker Jugue 4: 1706 And Then due too the Company Except my Owne fees out. 0-7-6"

"A Tring Day Holdne by Captain Barker Number [November] 12 1706 the parsones delencentes [delinquents!] Henry boddell, Edward Gray."

A traing Day October: 21 1708 parsones findd Thomas Carter, Andru allen."

The remaining pages—over a hundred of them—are filled with accounts of successive generations, kept by successive Osgoods. Those belonging to the first part of the century (1700-1725) were evidently kept by the same Timothy Osgood, son of Capt. John, who was born in 1659, married Deborah Poor in 1689, and died in 1748. A few of these entries we copy, both as connected with the families whose names appear almost every week in our genealogical records, and as giving glimpses of the simple ways in which our fathers lived in that "Long ago."

We copy one more entry from this curious old account book, relating to a funeral. The writing is in very ancient style and very difficult to read. Who the "Deceased" person was we cannot make out—unless it be "Nicholas Nicolls," but, unfortunately, he did not die until 1720. Mr. Osgood was evidently the administrator of the estate, and perhaps went to "Ipshiph" to attend probate court.

News and Notes of the Week.

New Hampshire pays her legislators $200 per session.

Dubuque, Iowa, has been invaded by immense swarms of flies.

Mr. Samuel J. Randall is again seriously ill at his Pennsylvania home.

Congressman Russell of Connecticut thinks that Reed of Maine will be the next speaker.

New York's Mayor and prominent citizens are considering the question of an international exposition to be held in that city in 1892.

Gen. O. O. Howard gave an interesting address at South Framingham on Wednesday, relating to some pleasant incidents in the life of Gen. Grant.

It is reported that the Sugar Trust are preparing to put the price of sugar still higher, and have already stored 300,000 barrels to that end.

The lightning of Tuesday's shower was very severe and some damage was done in towns of Essex County. The Congregational church at Danvers was damaged to the extent of $5000.

An investigating committee are looking into the affairs of Commissioner Tanner, and some interesting developments relating to the increase of pensions are likely to appear.

The President is enjoying the invigorating breezes at Deer Park, and probably will not return to Washington before September. A trip to Bar Harbor and other parts of the Maine coast, with a short stop in Boston on his way, are part of his plans for August.

Gov. Ames has been obliged to relinquish his duties on account of a return of the illness that came to him after his return from the New York celebration. He is slowly recovering health at his North Easton home, and Lieut. Gov. Brackett will fill the gubernatorial office until his return.

Dr. McDow, the slayer of Editor Dawson of Charlestown, S. C., has been expelled from every organization of which he was a member but one, and in many other ways been shown what the respectable people of the South think of such actions as he has been guilty of.

The English Parliament are considering the last grant requested by the Queen for her daughter who is about to be married. There is much opposition to the allowance of the grant, but it will probably go through. The Queen is reported to have a private fortune of nearly $10,000,000.

The Japanese Government have appointed Rev. Arthur May Knapp a Commissioner to examine into the procedure of Parliaments in Europe and America in order to prepare for the opening of the first Japanese Parliament next year under the new Constitution of Japan.

The steamship Lorenzo D. Baker of Boston, from Jamaica with a cargo of bananas, was burned at sea June 15th and her crew and passengers, with the exception of two firemen, saved by the schooner Franklin of New Bedford. The Franklin arrived in New Bedford on Tuesday morning.

The Boston democrats had one of the biggest rows on record last Monday night, while attempting to organize the new City Committee. The two rival factions led by Patrick Maguire and Michael Cunniff fought for four hours over the chairmanship, and then the row ended by the lights being extinguished.

Soldiers and Sailors everywhere will hear with a tinge of sadness, of the death of Count Schwabe, the once wealthy and benevolent German Prince, whose care of the sick and devotion to the Union hospitals in the Rebellion made his name dear to every lover of our Union. He died in Boston, July 10, at the age of about 75 years.

The steamer Belgic at San Francisco reports that a recent fire at Lu Chow, China, burned twenty-three hours, destroying 37,000 dwellings. Over 1200 persons perished in the flames, and 400 others were killed. Nearly 170,000 persons were obliged to camp out without shelter and were dying at the rate of 100 a day from want and exposure.

Mr. Blaine, M. Roustan, the French Minister, and party spent Tuesday at Ellsworth Me., the guests of Senator Hale. Mr. Blaine returned with the party to Bar Harbor in the evening. The engine of the train bringing the party from Ellsworth was fired by James G. Blaine, jr., who has now made four trips in the capacity of fireman on the Maine Central.

It would seem that the Johnstown sufferers expected to receive dollar for dollar out of the public fund, for all they lost in the great flood. In the distribution of the fund, so generously contributed by all America, there is encountered much dissatisfaction, some men refusing the sum apportioned because of its smallness, and almost all finding more or less fault. They evidently think the charitable public are a sort of insurance company.

The Senate Court Committee of France is about to issue an order depriving General Boulanger, Count Dillon and Henri Rochefort of all civil and political rights. This action of the committee is taken on the ground that they have refused to comply with the summons issued by the Senate Court to appear for trial on the charges made against them. This decision will render them ineligible to election to any office in France, and will also make any property they may own in France liable to seizure.

Another terrible flood has to be chronicled, this time in West Virginia. The Kanawha River was raised rapidly by severe rains and a cloud-burst on Sunday till it was of such size and power that dams and bridges were swept away and the whole valley flooded. The principal losses fall on the people of Norristown. This is the centre of large lumbering and coal interests, and the loss of logs and coal was enormous. Beside this many houses were completely ruined, and their occupants left homeless. The total loss of life is about twenty, and it is impossible to estimate the property loss.

The Massachusetts Club held their regular Summer Outing at the Point of Pines last Friday, and listened to a very able speech from Senator Hoar on "Canadian Annexation." Senator Hoar deems it undesirable to push matters in this direction believing that "The forces which are to bring her to us are to be multiplied with every invention, with every improvement in transportation, with every cheapening of freight; the telegraph and the telephone and the railroad are pulling us with their mighty attraction, and the common literature and the common speech, as well as the common interest, are pulling in this way."

President Harrison has just shipped to Indianapolis nearly a car load of mementoes that had accumulated at the White House. There were specimens of the log cabin business in all of the phases which the last campaign brought out. There were fac-similes and originals of Presidential tickets when Mr. Harrison's grandfather was the nominee. There were flags and other emblems borne by this or that campaign club. There were the menus and the list of speakers at this and that dinner. There were campaign hats, campaign canes, campaign mottoes and campaign everything almost.

It is reported that Mrs. Harding Woods of Barre, Mass., has been elected to the presidency of the Mount Holyoke College and Seminary, at South Hadley, to fill the place made vacant by the death of Miss Mary A. Brigham. No official announcement of the action of the trustees has been made, because Mrs. Wood's formal acceptance of the place has not been received. Mrs. Wood's maiden name was Miss Carrie Clark. She was graduated from Mount Holyoke Seminary about twenty-eight years ago, and for ten years thereafter was an instructor in the institution. She married Harding Woods of Barre nearly twenty years ago, but she has been a widow about three years.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery free at all Druggists.

Glen Mills Breadstuffs.

Among their specialties are

made from the very best pure yellow corn, thoroughly cleaned, ground and bolted by a process peculiar to this mill. It distances all other bolted meals in the market in sweetness and flavor.

ENTIRE WHEAT FLOUR

is made from selected, choice, ripe wheat; the grain first having been thoroughly cleaned, scoured and brushed, the woody fibre discarded, the inner brand retained, and the whole reduced to a uniform fineness by a process peculiar to our own mills. Every effort of the mind or movement of the muscle involves the waste of nervous energy and vitality; we must build up our systems by those elements which will replace those wastes. Chemical analysis shows us that waste flour cannot do this, as the best part of the wheat is sacrificed for the sake of the color.

GLEN MILLS ENTIRE WHEAT FLOUR

contains all the elements of the wheat, stored there by our Creator for our use.

Those preferring a coarse Graham should use the

Glen Mills True Wheat Meal

the best wheat meal in the market.

GLEN MILLS NEW PROCESS RYE MEAL,

Is made from the best quality of White Rye, which before it comes from the mills is thoroughly cleaned from all impurities, so that nothing comes to the reducing mills but plump, sound rye, as clean as washing can make it. One five pound package of our rye meal will convince you of its merits.

SUNDAY NEWS AND NOTES.	7

For some time past the publishers of the Townsman have felt the need of making the paper more of a news-paper. How to do it in the manner most acceptable to our readers is the question which we believe is answered in the announcement that Mr. George A. Higgins has associated himself with the Townsman, and will hereafter conduct its Local Department. More pains than ever will be taken to make our paper your paper, and so much centered around Andover and her interests, that no past or present citizen can afford to be without it. The management of the newspaper and printing will continue to be as for the past few weeks in the hands of Mr. Cole but the special departments of the work will be assigned so that Mr. Higgins will attend to the Local News and Advertising, and Mr. Carpenter to the Literary departments of the paper. That they may receive their proper and prompt attention, we would request our patrons to address all business to The Andover Press, the name of the publishing and printing firm, and all newspaper matter to The ANDOVER TOWNSMAN.

Collector Putnam furnishes us from his tax book, the two columns of interesting figures on this page which shows to a certain extent who are our rich men, and who contribute largely to our town's finances. They will be found especially interesting in comparison one with another, and will show by such comparison that next year will be none too early for a new adjustment of our valuation. We are not sufficiently informed in the matter to go into detail, but several cases that have been brought to our attention make us wonder at the elasticity of that conscience that will allow a man to make a difference of fifty per cent. in the value of his property when quoted for an assessor's book or offered at private sale. No one thing has done more to strain the relations of rich and poor than the inequality of taxes, and it is no wonder that our smaller tax payers fail to understand how it is that their levy is but little less than that of their neighbor who has many times their income. Of course we understand that a man's wealth is not always represented in that which is taxable, but we think that our decennial assessors will do a most acceptable work, if they will properly adjust Andover real estate and whatever personal property there is, that can be found, liable to taxation.

ANDOVER NEWS.

Mrs. Hattie G. Heron, formerly of Jonesboro, Tenn., who is reported in the papers to be under sentence of death for preaching Christianity in Corea, is remembered in Andover as Harriet E. Gibson a niece of the late Mrs. Sophia Tufts and a student of Abbott Academy in 1879. Mrs. Heron was a most beautiful and accomplished lady. The report is doubted by good authorities on Corean matters and ways.

Abbott Village.

The annual picnic of the employees of the Smith & Dove Mfg Co. takes place to-morrow (Saturday) at Canobie Lake. Special train leaves Andover at 8.10. Frye Village, 8.15, and Lawrence, 8.23, returning at 7 P.M. Sports and games of all kinds will take place at the grove. Tickets, 50 cents each can be had from Messrs. D. Leslie, B. Rogers, J. Harris, J. Campbell and J. Smith.

Notwithstanding the heavy rain last Saturday forenoon the weather cleared up quickly, and at 3 o'clock the home players went to Lawrence to engage the Merrimacks in the fourth game for the cup. Andover went to the field, the Merrimacks sending in Bowker and Murphy against the bowling of Kydd and Bruce. Both batsmen played carefully but the bowling was too good, and Murphy soon succumbed to Bruce and Bowker to Kydd. Butterfield was next corner, and by the flukiest kind of play, assisted by several "lives" managed to get 13 runs. None of the other batsmen gave any trouble, 29 runs being all they could produce, a very small score considering the strong batting team they had. Andover fielded well, and the catches taken were very smart. Andover then went to the bat and soon passed their opponent's score, 52 runs being on the telegraph-board when the last wicket fell. Dick, Christie, and White contributed 10, 8, and 8 respectively, the two latter having a six-hit each. A pleasant game resulted in a win for the Andovers by 23 runs. The score:

Cosmopolitan Club Anniversary.

The celebration of the first anniversary of the founding of the Cosmopolitan Club last Friday evening was a most enjoyable event, as might be supposed. The decorations were better than before, the entertainment was as good, anyway, and the supper was perfect. The decorating of the hall was done by Mr. G. Schwartz who designed an allegorical scene at the rear of the hall representing Germania with a young German and American soldier kneeling at either side and clasping hands.

The grounds were illuminated with a large number of Chinese lanterns. Among other floral decorations was a night-blooming cereus which was kindly loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Charles Greene. After a selection by the Orchestra Mr. Phillip Noessel commenced the evening's entertainment by welcoming the guests of the club in a short speech which he closed by introducing the "Glocke" or Bell Octette of Lawrence who sung several selections with fine effect. After another selection by the Orchestra, the Leader of the Octette rendered a solo, which was much enjoyed. Mr. Noessel then invited all to the supper room where the tables were bending under the weight of the good things furnished by the ladies. After a fruitless attempt to dispose of the large supply, Mr. Isler who acted as toast-master, introduced Mr. John S. Stark who, thanking the members of the club, said he would cheerfully give up the opportunity to make a speech to some of the other gentlemen present. Judge Poor followed with a happily worded speech. Mr. Haynes said he was sorry that there was not more such social gatherings, and thought that the Germans were far ahead of the Americans in this respect. Mr. Hayward was introduced and spoke briefly. Dr. Shattuck finished the speaking with a good story and the party then adjourned to the upper hall.

President Froesch made an eloquent address in German which was warmly applauded by those who understood it. The Octette gave several other selections one being very funny. This represented an orchestra and the musicians imitated the several instruments with their voices. Dancing followed, and the party broke up at an early hour (in the morning). Many were present from out of town, among others, Judge Poor, Mrs. Poor, and Miss Poor, Representative Manning, John L. Smith, and Mr. Lewis T. Hardy of Andover. All the business men in this place were invited. Every one went home with the wish that the Cosmopolitan Club might have an "anniversary" several times a year instead of only once.

Drowning Accident.

An unfortunate accident which resulted in the death of drowning of Harry E., the 11 years old son of Mr. Samuel Hamlin, and at the same time, Albert F. son of Mr. Geo. H. Whitman, occurred at the "bend" in the Merrimack River about one-third of a mile below the Point. It appears that the two boys in company with others were picking berries in a neighboring field Monday forenoon, and shortly before half past ten o'clock repaired to the river to bathe. The current at this point runs swiftly, and in places the eddies are powerful, and numerous holes abound. The boys had been enjoying themselves but a short time when their attention was arrested by cries from the Whitman boy who sank in the water, and being unable to swim, was drowned. The Hamlin boy in endeavoring to lend assistance to his playmate got beyond his depth and was also lost. Chief of Police Rextrow with officers Gile and Trombly and several of the residents owning boats along the shore were on the spot soon after the sad news became known, dragging the bed of the river with the aid of grappling hook. The body of the Whitman boy was the first recovered, about 11 o'clock, by Messrs Kennelly and Barrett. Chief Rextrow and Officer Trombly found the other body about half an hour afterward. The bodies were taken to their respective homes in charge of the officers and were received by medical examiner Howe of Lawrence, after which they were prepared for burial by undertaker Parker of Andover. Both boys were members of the M. E. Sunday school, Harry Hamlin in Mrs. Orrin Keniston's class, and Albert Whitman in Mr. Chas. Meserve's. Rev. Mr. Hodge con-

SUNDAY NEWS AND NOTES.

For some time past the publishers of the Townsman have felt the need of making the paper more of a news-paper. How to do it in the manner most acceptable to our readers is the question which we believe is answered in the announcement that Mr. George A. Higgins has associated himself with the Townsman, and will hereafter conduct its Local Department. More pains than ever will be taken to make our paper your paper, and so much centered around Andover and her interests, that no past or present citizen can afford to be without it. The management of the newspaper and printing will continue to be as for the past few weeks in the hands of Mr. Cole but the special departments of the work will be assigned so that Mr. Higgins will attend to the Local News and Advertising, and Mr. Carpenter to the Literary departments of the paper. That they may receive their proper and prompt attention, we would request our patrons to address all business to The Andover Press, the name of the the publishing and printing firm, and all newspaper matter to The ANDOVER TOWNSMAN.

Collector Putnam furnishes us from his tax book, the two columns of interesting figures on this page which shows to a certain extent who are our rich men, and who contribute largely to our town's finances. They will be found especially interesting in comparison one with another, and will show by such comparison that next year will be none too early for a new adjustment of our valuation. We are not sufficiently informed in the matter to go into detail, but several cases that have been brought to our attention make us wonder at the elasticity of that conscience that will allow a man to make a difference of fifty per cent. in the value of his property when quoted for an assessor's book or offered at private sale. No one thing has done more to strain the relations of rich and poor than the inequality of taxes, and it is no wonder that our smaller tax payers fail to understand how it is that their levy is but little less than that of their neighbor who has many times their income. Of course we understand that a man's wealth is not always represented in that which is taxable, but we think that our decennial assessors will do a most acceptable work, if they will properly adjust Andover real estate and whatever personal property there is, that can be found, liable to taxation.

Abbott Village.

The annual picnic of the employees of the Smith and Dove Mfg Co. takes place to-morrow (Saturday) at Canobie Lake. Special train leaves Andover at 8.10. Frye Village, 8.15, and Lawrence, 8.23, returning at 7 p.m. Sports and games of all kinds will take place at the grove. Tickets, 50 cents each can be had from Messrs. D. Leslie, B. Rogers, J. Harris, J. Campbell and J. Smith.

Notwithstanding the heavy rain last Saturday forenoon the weather cleared up quickly, and at 3 o'clock the home players went to Lawrence to engage the Merrimacks in the fourth game for the cup. Andover went to the field, the Merrimacks sending in Bowker and Murphy against the bowling of Kydd and Bruce. Both batsmen played carefully but the bowling was too good, and Murphy soon succumbed to Bruce and Bowker to Kydd. Butterfield was next comer, and by the flukiest kind of play, assisted by several "lives" managed to get 18 runs. None of the other batsmen gave any trouble, 29 runs being all they could produce, a very small score considering the strong batting team they had. Andover fielded well, and the catches taken were very smart. Andover then went to the bat and soon passed their opponent's score, 52 runs being on the telegraph-board when the last wicket fell. Dick, Christie, and White contributed 10, 8, and 8 respectively, the two latter having a six-hit each. A pleasant game resulted in a win for the Andovers by 23 runs. The score:

Cosmopolitan Club Anniversary.

The celebration of the first anniversary of the founding of the Cosmopolitan Club last Friday evening was a most enjoyable event, as might be supposed. The decorations were better than before, the entertainment was as good, anyway, and the supper was perfect. The decorating of the hall was done by Mr. G. Schwartz who designed an allegorical scene at the rear of the hall representing Germania with a young German and American soldier kneeling at either side and clasping hands.

The grounds were illuminated with a large number of Chinese lanterns. Among other floral decorations was a night-blooming cereus which was kindly loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Charles Greene. After a selection by the Orchestra Mr. Phillip Noessel commenced the evening's entertainment by welcoming the guests of the club in a short speech which he closed by introducing the "Gleecke" or Bell Octette of Lawrence who sung several selections with fine effect. After another selection by the Orchestra, the Leader of the Octette rendered a solo, which was much enjoyed. Mr. Noessel then invited all to the supper room where the tables were bending under the weight of the good things furnished by the ladies. After a fruitless attempt to dispose of the large supply, Mr. Isler who acted as toast-master, introduced Mr. John S. Stark who, thanking the members of the club, said he would cheerfully give up the opportunity to make a speech to some of the other gentlemen present. Judge Poor followed with a happily worded speech. Mr. Haynes said he was sorry that there was not more such social gatherings, and thought that the Germans were far ahead of the Americans in this respect. Mr. Hayward finished the speaking with a good story and the party then adjourned to the upper hall.

President Froesch made an eloquent address in German which was warmly applauded by those who understood it. The Octette gave several other selections one being very funny. This represented an orchestra and the musicians imitated the several instruments with their voices. Dancing followed, and the party broke up at an early hour (in the morning). Many were present from out of town, among others, Judge Poor, Mrs. Poor, and Miss Poor, Representative Manning, John L. Smith, and Mr. Lewis T. Hardy of Andover. All the business men in this place were invited. Every one went home with the wish that the Cosmopolitan Club might have an "anniversary" several times a year instead of only once.

Drowning Accident.

An unfortunate accident which resulted in the death by drowning of Harry E., the 11 years old son of Mr. Samuel Hamlin, and at the same time, Albert F. son of Mr. Geo. H. Whitman, occurred at the "bend" in the Merrimack River about one-third of a mile below the Point. It appears that the two boys in company with others were picking berries in a neighboring field Monday forenoon, and shortly before half past ten o'clock repaired to the river to bathe. The current at this point runs swiftly, and in places the eddies are powerful, and numerous holes abound. The boys had been enjoying themselves but a short time when their attention was arrested by cries from the Whitman boy who sank in the water, and being unable to swim, was drowned. The Hamlin boy in endeavoring to lend assistance to his playmate got beyond his depth and was also lost. Chief of Police Rextrow with officers Gile and Trombly and several of the residents owning boats along the shore were on the spot soon after the sad news became known, dragging the bed of the river with the aid of grappling hook. The body of the Whitman boy was the first recovered, about 11 o'clock, by Messrs. Kennelly and Barrett. Chief Rextrow and Officer Trombly found the other body about half an hour afterward. The bodies were taken to their respective homes in charge of the officers and were received by medical examiner Howe of Lawrence, after which they were prepared for burial by undertaker Parker of Andover. Both boys were members of the M. E. Sunday school, Harry Hamlin in Mrs. Orrin Keniston's class, and Albert Whitman in Mr. Chas. Meserve's. Rev. Mr. Hodge con-

The Stars and the Flowers.

When Eve had led her lord away,
And Cain had killed his brother,
The stars and flowers, the poets say,
Agreed with one another

To cheat the cunning tempter's art,
And teach the race its duty,
By keeping on its wicked heart
Their eyes of light and beauty.

A million sleepless lids, they say,
Will be at least a warning;
And so the flowers would watch by day,
The stars from eve to morning.

On hill and prairie, field and lawn,
Their dewy eyes upturning,
The flowers will watch from reddening dawn
Till western skies are burning.

Alas! each hour of daylight tells
A tale of shame so crushing,
That some turn white as sea-bleached shells,
And some are always blushing.

But when the patient stars look down
On all their light discovers,
The traitor's smile, the murderer's frown,
The lips of lying lovers,

They try to shut their saddening eyes,
And in the vain endeavor
We see them twinkling in the skies,
And so they wink forever.

SELECTIONS.

Catching Fish with a Bottle.

We have often heard of fishing parties taking bottles with them, but did not know before that they could be utilized for catching the fish. The last Wide Awake tells how it is done, and we recommend the extract to the great numbers whom we have recently observed obtaining government licenses to engage in the Haggitt's Pond Fisheries. To secure the best results, the bottles should be empty before starting from home:

A number of empty beer bottles being obtained, each one is to be filled with sand or shot until it will stand upright when floated in water. Each bottle is then tightly corked, and a strong tapering ash or hickory stick, eighteen inches long, is passed through each cork, this stick having a small, bright-colored burgee (a three-cornered flag) at its tip. Next a piece of wire is twisted around the neck of the bottle, so that it cannot slip off, and in this wire a large loop is made to which the fish-line is fastened. The length of the line must depend entirely upon the depth of the water to be fished; ten feet is usually long enough. The hooks, for general use, should be of medium size—say number five. Moderately heavy sinkers are attached to the line. A swivel will make the outfit complete, although not absolutely necessary. If the bottles themselves cost nothing, a dozen may be prepared at a cost of twenty-five cents.

The bottles, thus having been made ready, may be used in a number of ways. They may be set in a row on the bank of a stream, or on a pier, close to the edge the hooks, having been properly baited, are to be dropped into the water. It will not be long before one of the bottles will begin to waver and suddenly take a mighty leap overboard, swimming off and bobbing around in a very peculiar manner. The excitement which a row of these fishing-bottles will arouse, and the guessing as to which bottle will go first, is very amusing, and not to be despised as a sport. One or more bottles, having popped off, and been taken in tow by a fish, must now be rescued; this can be done by means of a long stick having three hooks, without barbs, lashed to it, back to back; some one of the hooks will soon catch into the loop of wire around the neck of the bottle, and you can draw in both bottle and fish.

Where there is a lake or pond at hand and a boat available, the bottles may be taken out from shore and set afloat around the boat. If the fish are at all lively and there are many bottles to tend, there will be some exciting sport in chasing the bottles, for they will start in all directions at every moment.

Where there is a number in the party "sides" may be chosen—two sets of bottles being furnished, an even number to each, and each set having a flag differing in color. The side catching the most fish wins whatever prize is to be awarded.

For sea-fishing an additional arrangement is needed, because the waves cause the bottles to bob up and down so that it is hard to know when a fish bites. The flag is brought into use as a signal. The upright rod is furnished at its tip with a small screw-eye, and a strip of tin three inches long is fastened by its lower end to the lower end of the rod parallel with it, so as to make a spring-clip. The flag is fastened to the end of the line, and is set by being caught in the clip made by the strip of tin. In this position, the flag is "lowered," as it were being at the foot of the rod; but when a fish bites, he pulls it away from the clip and raises it to the rod where it stops, being too large to go through the eye. That the flag may fly straight, and not be drawn into the eye and crumpled, it is best to sew it to a straight bit of wire, having a loop at the top to which the line is tied.

Another improvement is to paint the inside of the bottle white, by pouring in white paint, shaking it around and then pouring it out and letting the bottle dry. Then prepare the bottle as described, and should a large fish turn the bottle upside down as he very likely will, it can be readily seen and followed. Always wind up the lines carefully when through using them and stow the bottles away in a box made for them. Then they will last a long time and probably afford amusement to a great many.

Presentiments.

From a remarkable article in the Century on Presentiments, Visions, and Apparitions, written by Dr. Buckley of New York (Dr. Bancroft's travelling companion in the East), we make an extract, showing the doubtful character of so-called premonitions:

The possibilities of chance in the fulfillment of presentiments are incomputable, as a fact which occurred in this country during the civil war, and which is known by thousands yet living to be true, may serve to show. Joseph C. Baldwin, a young gentleman residing in Newark, N. J., was a journalist of more than local fame. He wrote under several pen names, one of which was "Ned Carroll" and another "Frank Greenwood." The articles written under the latter name were unlike any of his other productions, being personal and censorious in character; and Frank Greenwood was in consequence most unpopular in Newark and vicinity, while Ned Carroll was a general favorite. Early in the war Mr. Baldwin enlisted in the 11th regiment of New Jersey Volunteers, and after arriving at the seat of war wrote several letters for publication, in one of which, sent to the Newark Courier, he described the death of the mythical Greenwood in these words:

ARMY OF THE LOWER POTOMAC,
GEN. HOOKER'S DIVISION.

Mr. Editor:

I only fulfil the dying request of a beloved comrade in apprising you of his sad fate. Two months ago Frank Greenwood joined our company (C, 5th regiment), and soon became a general favorite, owing to his great sociability and undaunted courage. He received his death-wound from a shell, which was thrown from the Cockpit Point rebel battery, and burst within twenty feet of him, while holding the signal halyards at a review on the 3d inst. We mourn him as a brother.

NED CARROLL.

On the 15th of May, 1864, Lieutenant Baldwin, who had been in the battles of Bull Run, Gettysburg, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Antietam, and the Wilderness, and a score of skirmishes; who had had many narrow escapes and many wounds in the active service, sat in camp knowing of no danger near, when a piece of iron from a shell "thrown from a rebel battery" which "burst within twenty feet of him," struck him in the back of the head, killing him instantly.

Let those who propose to prove supernatural portents by mathematics determine what the "probability" was that in a mere spirit of jest he should describe in detail the manner of his own death months afterwards.

Just after the close of the civil war I concluded to go South by steamer, and took passage from St. Louis on the steamship Luminary for New Orleans. Navigation on the Mississippi River at the close of the war was uncertain. Many old vessels were employed, the condition of the river was dangerous, and during the preceding twelve or fifteen months nine steamers had been blown up, or otherwise destroyed, resulting in great loss of life. Nearly all the accidents had been caused by the explosion of what are known as tubular boilers, and a great prejudice existed against vessels having boilers of that kind. The Luminary was of the old-fashioned sort, and quite a number of passengers had taken it on that account.

I was accompanied to the vessel by my brother, who up to that time had travelled with me, and was about to return to the East. As he was upon the point of bidding me farewell, I was seized without a moment's thought or preparation with the most appalling conviction that the vessel would be lost, that I was looking upon my brother for the last time, and seemed to see with almost the vividness of an actual perception, the scene of the explosion, to hear the shrieks of the passengers, and to feel myself swallowed up in the general destruction. Composing myself as much as possibly, I said to my brother: "If ever a man had a presentiment of death, I have it now; but you know I have for years held that presentiments spring from physical weakness, superstition, or cowardice. Would you yield to these terrible feelings?" He replied, "No! If you do, you will always be a slave to them." After some further conversation he went ashore, and the boat started.

For several hours the dread of disaster overhung me, but gradually wore off, and late at night I fell asleep. The distance from St. Louis to New Orleans is about twelve hundred miles. The time taken by the Luminary was seven days. It was in all respects, after the first day, a delightful voyage. After remaining in New Orleans a few days I reëmbarked on the same vessel, continuing up the river eight hundred miles, making in all more than two thousand miles without any accident.

Since that experience, in many voyages I have made it an object to inquire of travellers and others concerning presentiments and have found that they are very common, occasionally fulfilled, generally not so; and that it is the tendency with practically all persons who have had one presentiment come true to force themselves into all, and to become tyrants over those dependent upon them or those travelling with them. It is to be frankly admitted that no matter how vivid the supposed presentiment might be, its non-fulfilment would not demonstrate that there are no presentiments which must have originated external to the mind of the subject; but having been led by my experience to induce many persons to defy such feelings without a single instance of reported evil results, it confirms strongly the hypothesis of their subjective origin.

That presentiments are governed by no moral principle in the character of the subject to which they are applied, the persons who receive them, the occasions upon which they are given, and their effects, is apparent. The most immoral have claimed to have them, have communicated them to others, and they have sometimes been fulfilled by events from which the persons having them have derived great personal advantages. The best of men have had presentiments, but the great majority of good people have not; and the greatest calamities which have befallen most persons have come without any warning whatsoever, except such as could be inferred from existing situations. Experience, foresight, and guidance by ordinary sagacity have been all that mankind have had to rely upon; and to be governed only by these, combating or disregarding presentiments, impressions, and powerful impulses for which no foundation can be found in the nature of things, is the only safe and stable rule.

Anecdotes of Phillips Brooks.

Some time ago a lady had occasion to travel from Providence with her father, who was very weak in his mind. Whether it was the excitement of the journey which developed so suddenly in this usually quiet and inoffensive man an unruly disposition, or whether it was merely the ordinary course of his disease, I do not know, but at all events long before they reached Boston he became possessed of a fancy that he must get off the train while it was still in motion; that some absolute duty called him. His daughter endeavored to quiet him, but it was difficult to do it, and she was just giving it up in despair when she noticed a very large man just across the aisle who was watching the proceeding intently over the top of his paper.

As soon as he caught her eyes he rose and crossed quickly to her. "I beg your pardon," he said. "You are in trouble. May I help you?" As soon as he spoke she felt perfect trust in him. "What is your father's name?" he asked. She told him, and with an encouraging smile he bent over the gentleman who was sitting in front of her, and said a few words in his ear. With a smile the gentleman rose, crossed the aisle, and took the vacant seat, and the next moment the large man had turned over the seat, and leaning over the troubled old man addressed him by name, shaken hands cordially with him, and engaged him in a conversation so interesting and so cleverly arranged to keep his mind occupied that he forgot his need to leave the train, and did not think of it again until they were in Boston. Here the stranger put the lady and her friend into a carriage, receiving her assurance that she felt perfectly safe, had cordially shaken her hand, and was about to close the carriage door when she remembered that she had felt so safe in the keeping of this noble-looking man that she had not even asked his name. Hastily putting her hand against the door, she said: "Pardon me, but—you rendered me such a service—may I not know whom I am thanking?" The big man smiled as he answered: "Phillips Brooks," and turned away.

Last winter he noticed three young men who came to hear him quite regularly, and as they looked like workmen he took pains to find out who they were and made an opportunity to speak with them. Having ascertained where they lived and what they did, he went one day to call on them. He climbed several flights of stairs and knocked at the door. All three of the young men were in, and they were taking their comfort in their shirt-sleeves. Naturally they were a trifle embarrassed at being surprised by this man to whom they looked up with so much respect. Mr. Brooks shook hands all around and then said with his cheerful smile: "Well, boys, it's a little warm here. I think, if you will let me, I will take off my coat," and he did and sat down and made his call in his shirt-sleeves. It is needless to say that those boys will never need any better influence in their lives than Phillips Brooks will keep there, for it is remarkable how many men he can carry in his mind and keep safe in his influence.—Home Journal.

Gen. Washington as a Farmer.

The following reference to the agricultural experience of General Washington is taken from the Middlesex Gazette of July 25th, 1789—which comes very near being a hundred years ago to-day:

Gen. Washington possesses 10,000 acres of land in one body, where he lives—constantly employs 250 hands—keeps twenty-four plows going all the year, when the weather will permit—sowed in 1787, 600 bushels of oats, 700 acres of wheat, and prepared as much for corn, barley, potatoes, peas, beans, etc.—has near 500 acres in grass, and sowed 150 with turnips. Stock, 140 horses, 112 cows, 235 working oxen, heifers, and steers, and 500 sheep.

The lands about his seat are all laid down in grass. The farms are scattered round at the distance of two, three, four or five miles, which the General visits every day—unless the weather is absolutely stormy.

He is constantly making various and extensive experiments for the improvement of agriculture. He is stimulated with the desire which always actuates him—to do good to his country and benefit to mankind.

In 1786 he killed 150 hogs, weighing 18,560 pounds, for his family's use, (exclusive of provisions for his negroes), which was made into bacon.

Gen. Sherman and the Hotel Clerk.

It is a polite thing to address a corporal or a captain with "Colonel," but quite another thing to apply the same title to officers of the highest rank in the United States Army. This is illustrated by a recent experience of Gen. Sherman at the theatre, as related by a New York paper:

There was a clear sky when the general went in, but before the performance was over it began to rain and the temperature became raw and cold. At the end of the second act he went into the Gedney House, a few doors below the theatre, and inquired of Clerk Majilton if he could hire an umbrella, at the same time explaining that he had been caught out in his evening suit and he feared rheumatism and other complaints. Majilton didn't know him, but he thought he could well afford to take chances on such an eminently respectable looking gentleman, and although the polite clerk has a rotund figure and weighs about 212, he gladly offered to loan him his overcoat as well as his silver handled umbrella.

"But," said the general, "you are lending these things to an entire stranger, and you ought to accept some kind of a deposit to secure you against dishonesty."

"Oh, that's all right, colonel," replied Majilton, as he tossed a key gracefully to Louis Harrison. "I can't be deceived by you. I'd trust that face of yours for anything."

The warrior was tickled by the compliment and he remarked casually as he went out with his tall gaunt form enveloped in the garment that fitted him like a meal-sack. "I'll take you at your word, and you shall have my card when I return these things."

The next day the coat and umbrella arrived, accompanied by a note of thanks and a photograph of Gen. Wm. T. Sherman, with his autograph across its face. "Great Scott!" said Majilton, "and I called him 'colonel,' just as if he had been any ordinary American citizen. I wouldn't mind it half so much if I had called him 'judge,' but to be reduced in military rank after all his years of service—and by a hotel clerk! It's awful!"

Gen. Sherman and the Small Boy.

Gen. William T. Sherman, after the theatre one night, boarded a Franklin Avenue car with some ladies, all of whom found seats except one. At the upper end of the car was a little darkey, with hands in pockets and a great deal of the whites of his eyes showing. The general caught sight of him, and, taking him by the collar, stood him up against the door, half frightened and certainly ignorant of the offence which he had given the tall gray-bearded hero of the march to the sea. Then the lady sat down. After the car had proceeded a few blocks a gentleman vacated a seat and got out. Somebody called the general's attention to the fact, and he, in the presence of the whole car full of passengers, took the young darkey in his arms, carried him to the seat, and carefully dumped him into it. Having given up his seat to a lady, the darkey was entitled to the first vacancy, and old Tecumseh saw that he got it.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Flax-growing in America.

Professor Willets, assistant secretary of agriculture, recently received a letter from Ireland which the professor thinks may solve the question of "What shall take the place of wheat on farms where it can no longer be raised at a profit?" The writer has been familiar with flax-growing in America since 1840. There are only two linen-weaving establishments in America, the writer says, one at Webster, Mass., the other at Appleton, Wis., neither weaving anything finer than crash. He says there is every reason why the American farmers should produce yearly a million acres of flax, both for seed and fibre, above what is now produced, which would give 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels of seed, worth many millions of dollars, and 2,500,000 tons of flax straw, worth $50,000,000, and from which 500,000 tons of flax fibre would be obtained, worth $100,000,000.

The writer claims to have discovered a process by which, in five minutes, he can produce from the dry natural straw perfect fibre, the color of cotton and fine as raw silk. A sample of the fibre produced by the new process was enclosed in the letter, and it was so satisfactory to Professor Willets that he informed the sender that the subject of his letter would be earnestly considered by the department.

The pulpit at the Chapel church was occupied by Rev. M. C. Ayers of Boston, who preached from 1 Cor. 15: 44, "If there is a natural body, there is a spiritual body."

Rev. Frederic Palmer preached at Christ church on the painfulness of growth. His text was St. Matt. 4, 19, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." The contrast between the simple life of fishermen and the complex life of fishers of men is a typical instance of what is involved in the duty of not shrinking from the complexities which growth brings, but of meeting them, and through their hardness finding their wealth.

The South church people heard two good sermons from Rev. J. W. Savage of Lake Linden, Mich., a graduate of Andover Seminary in 1882, and well known to many of his audience. For his morning discourse the preacher spoke of some of the lessons from the experience of Jonah, teaching that man's course in sin runs smoothly for a while, but that God is sure to bring a change. In the evening the sermon pointed out the importance of right beginnings, from the words of Mark 1: 1.

At the Baptist church Rev. J. V. Stratton preached an earnest sermon from the text "Brethren if any of you do err from the truth, and one convert him, let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins," found in James 5: 19, 20. In the evening the pastor spoke on "Stages of Progress in the knowledge of Christ."

Rev. C. H. Wilcox, pastor of the Pawtucket church, Lowell, preached at the West church in the morning, in exchange with pastor Greene. His text was from Matt. 10: 8—"Freely ye have received, freely give." The Christian Endeavor Convention at Philadelphia was the theme of the evening service, and very interesting reports were given by Mr. Greene, and Charles Dodson the West church delegate.

Prof. Ryder preached at the Free church, morning and evening. His sermon was based on the words found in Isaiah 26: 3—"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee because he trusteth in thee," the teaching being that the peace to be desired is the peace coming from an active Christian life, and not the peace born of idleness. At the young people's evening meeting, delegate George A. Higgins gave a glowing account of the Philadelphia Y. P. S. C. E. Convention.

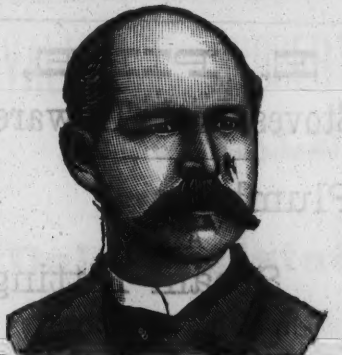

A noble work is that done by the summer corps of physicians in New York among the poor. This year there are forty-one of these men who devote themselves to visiting tenement houses and caring for the inmates. Their first report made to the Board of Health last week showed that they had visited 3826 houses and 25,746 families, prescribing for 1287 sick persons. This work is largely a labor of love, and the self-sacrificing doctors are entitled to the gratitude, not only of those they look after and relieve, but of the entire community.

Equity in Sunday Laws.

"Equity" should be used as a watchword for the enactment, improvement and enforcement of our Sunday laws. In the general suspension of Sunday work and business there are three notorious exceptions in many places. The saloons, the trains, and the newspapers are allowed to carry on business secretly or publicly in the interests of their rich proprietors, while the peanut stands and little stores of the poor are closed. A few Sabbaths since in New York, when all the rich florists were selling flowers without resistance, contrary to law, a burly policeman arrested an Italian who was selling five-cent button-hole bouquets, and doubtless in five minutes made him an anarchist and all his friends. If such discrimination is made in the law itself, the legislature perpetrates a crime against equity. Such law is violation of law, and cannot long be enforced. The only law that can either be justified or maintained in practice is a law which impartially forbids, in rich and poor, all forms of Sunday work that are not works of mercy or necessity. Rev. W. F. Crafts in Congregationalist.

The Newspaper at Home.

In many families the newspaper has become a forbidden object to the hands and eyes of the younger members. Their parents have become unwilling that they should familiarize themselves with the records of crimes to be found there, with the fact of the frequency of such crimes, or with the frequently light and flippant ways of mentioning them, while in many cases the advertisements have become sources of apprehension. It is a pity, however, to deprive the growing children of all knowledge of what is going on in the world in different regions from those of crime; and households have always their safeguard in the provision of a weekly paper which, while keeping its readers abreast with the current of the world, is not bound as a matter of news to the daily consideration of the last theft or murder.—Harper's Bazar.

Oklahoma Hotel Rules.

If the bugs are troublesome you'll find the kloroform in a bottle on the shelf. Gents goin' to bed with their boots on will be charged extra.

Three raps at the door means that there is a murder in the house, and you must get up.

If you're too cold, put the oilcloth over the bed.

If it rains through that hole over head, you'll find an umbrella under the bed.

The rats won't hurt you if they do chase each other across your face.

Please don't empty the sawdust out of the pillars.—Spokane Globe.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health; to the use of the great Alternative and Tonic. If troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at any Drug store.
